our own story, a narrative that makes sense to us from the inside, from where it has been lived.

An obituary written before the fact isn't a fixed document. The story doesn't stop. You can keep revising it to the end. It's the gist that counts.

When the first of us dies, the other can simply call up the file. Grieving will not be compounded by having to decide what to say in the paper. The same will be true when the other dies. Our children will not have their grieving hijacked by wondering how to articulate a parent's story.

The obituary says how you want to be remembered.

The funeral or memorial service or celebration of life (lots of choices these days) says how you want to be sent on your way. Again, it's a blessing to those who are left behind that you have already identified what you'd like done, how, where and by whom. They can make changes if they wish, but they don't have to start from scratch.

Do you want closed casket or open, or cremation? Do you have a place already purchased for burial or inurnment (or maybe you want your ashes scattered in a place you love)?

Pre-planning our funerals relieves the remaining one (and subsequently, the children) of countless distractions.

Pre-paying (a separate decision) offers a benefit we wouldn't have guessed. A prepaid funeral is considered an excludable asset when Medicaid expenses accumulate, as they well might in case one of us goes into a nursing home. Mention of nursing home calls into play the "emotion of uneasiness" that surfaces when prolonged illness takes the stage.

Planning a funeral needs to be prefaced with planning for end-of-life that precedes the funeral.

We believe a Health Care Directive is really a blessing for our family. It is part of our portfolio.

There is help available at lightthelegacy.org: "The mission of Light The Legacy is to educate and empower the people of Central Minnesota about the importance of personal health care planning through facilitating conversation and inspiring action." Check it out.

Maybe "keeping death daily before your eyes" is a bit much, but avoiding it daily is both delusional and selfish. I urge you to think about it at least enough to give a gift to those who will be left.

This is the opinion of Patrick Henry, retired executive director of the Collegeville Institute for Ecumenical and Cultural Research and author of "The Ironic Christian's Companion." His column is published the first Sunday of the month.

Mae Kampa

FOLEY - Mae Kampa age 94 of Foley, passed away on April 5, 2019 at the Foley Nursing Center. A Mass of Christian Burial will be 10:00 AM, Tuesday, April 9, 2019 at St. John's Catholic Church, Foley. Visitation will be one hour prior to the service at the church on Tuesday. Burial will take place in the Parish Cemetery. Service with Dignity provided by the Foley Funeral Home.

Mae Mildred Kampa was born February 5, 1925 in Maywood, Illinois to Jack and Pauline (Rothermel) Emig. She married Louis Kampa on March 5, 1943 in Colorado Springs, Colorado. Mae volunteered for many years at the Cross Center and the Dewey Nutrition Center in Foley. She was a talented artist and crafter who continued her artistry well into her nineties. She was a member of St. John's Catholic Church and the Christian Mother's. Mae will be deeply missed.

She is survived by her children: Lou (Tom) Demarais, Pat (Jack) Abfalter, Gary (Susan) Kampa, Tim Kampa (Lynn Marie Volkens), Sheri (Brandon) Fouquette and Robert. She is also survived by her 14 grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren and 8 great-great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents and husband, Louis on September 26, 1991 and sisters; Lillian Anderson and Jackie Lake.

Robert Andrew Weisbrich

-- Robert (Bob) Weisbrich died December 16, 2018 in the Kingman Emergency Regional Medical Center in Kingman, Arizona, due to complications related to heart disease.

Bob was born on the Weisbrich family farm near Upsala, MN (near Pine Lake) on January 20, 1939. He would have been 80.

He is preceded in death by his parents, Carl and Anna Maria Weisbrich, two brothers and two sisters, Clarence Weisbrich, Big Lake, MN., Anthony (Tony) Weisbrich, Los Angeles, CA., Mary Anna Maki, Victorville, CA. and Irene Lee, Corcoran MN. Bob is survived by daughter, Peri Weisbrich, Seattle, WA. and his son, Matthew Weisbrich, Issaquah, WA.; two brothers, John Weisbrich, Las Vegas, NV, Richard Weisbrich, Rio Rancho, NM., and sister Cathy Weisbrich, Santa Clara, CA. After the death of his parents in 1947, the five youngest children (Irene, John, Cathy, Bob and Richard) were placed in the St. Cloud Childrens Home in St. Cloud, MN. When he was a teenager Bob was placed in a foster home on the Richard (RJ) Janski's dairy farm south of St. Augusta, MN. He finally had a feeling of family. He spent three years in the U.S. Marine Corp. After his discharge he went to work in the aerospace industry as a self-taught machinist. He worked in Washington and California. Upon his retirement, he traveled in his pickup/camper pulling a house trailer. In the winter he went to the deserts of the southwest and the summers to the mountains of the northwest. He was a little hard to keep track of.

Bob was cremated and in the spring, he will be interred in the Tahoma National Cemetery, Seattle, WA.

Rest in peace brother, we will meet again.
