

PALETTE PERFECTION

Our readers are delivering the goods as we experience an extraordinary fall color season. It came a bit early and popped very quickly. We expect there will be more great shots as October plods along.

Katie Nisula captured the light at Lac La Belle Lake south of Carlton just before rain came on Sept. 23.

Cami Inforzato of Wrenshall found this stunning scene on the St. Louis River last week.

Melissa Harper of Cloquet offered this picture of children Griffin and Gianna during a walk down their driveway last week.

Photographer Mark Cline of Cloquet was in the Jay Cooke State Park area over the weekend. The rocky outcrop shot, above, is from along the Munger Trail just west of Minnesota Highway 210. The “leaves and bubbles” scene is from the St. Louis River edge near the Grand Portage trail.
