StormTRACKER forecast

We'll stay dry Wednesday with highs only hitting the mid to upper 30s across the area, but showers will develop later Thursday with a chance of some wet snowflakes in the mix. More rain is forecast to head our direction the second half of the weekend. We may end up staying dry most of Friday and the first half of Saturday before this next rain producer inches closer. Highs will range from the 30s to lower 40s through midweek.
