addition we want to minimize the time we're at any particular site doing operations. Because of that we generally ask for longer hours, the idea then being that we can be there for a shorter period."

He listed 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. or 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. as more typical hours.

Jason Duinink, a business developer for Duinink, said the most important aspect was starting early in order to keep up with the demands of a busy day of construction work. He also noted technology allowed them to stack up to 40 feet efficiently, instead of the 30 feet allowed in the permit draft.

Environmental services director Marc Telecky told board members 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. had been placed on the permit proposal because the site was closer to housing than other light industrial business in the area.

"Typically, if it is in a more isolated area, (7 a.m. to 6 p.m. or 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.) is our normal conditions that we place," he said, later adding that gravel mining usually does not happen so close to residences.

Board Member Paul Wright, who sits on the Joint Planning Board, said residents expressed concerns about noise and odor. The sound of the backup beeper on trucks was a common point.

"The hours of operation were probably the biggest concern," he said.

Board members ultimately voted 3-2 to approve the permit, but change the hours to 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. The 30-foot stockpile height remained.

Doug Krueger, Wright and Joe Nagel voted in favor of the resolution. Nathan Schmalz and Daryl Luthens voted against the resolution.

many years. He's made 16 records in a variety of formats including vinyl, 8-track tapes, cassettes, CDs and DVDs. He played for Hubert H. Humphrey when he ran for president. He was in the pep band that played for the Minnesota North Stars hockey team. He played for more than 40 years on KEYC-TV Bandwagon show and RFDTV. He had his own Country Dutchmen show for 54 years, and he hosted Musicians Round-Up for 26 years, both on KDUZ Radio. He also owned Red Rose Records and was part owner of Little Crow Record Company in Hutchinson. The list goes on and on.

Looking back, Schuft said, he appreciates all the friendships he's made through the years. Every once in awhile someone comes up to him and says, "You played at our wedding dance 50 years ago."

About the Minnesota Music Hall of Fame

The museum at 27 Broadway St. N., New Ulm, was established in 1987 to honor musicians, past and present, who have contributed significantly to the Minnesota music scene in all genres of music including classical, bluegrass, rock 'n' roll, waltzes, polka, and others.

The first group of inductees was honored in 1989 and included: Paul W. "Doc" Evans, "Whoopie" John Wilfahrt, F. Melius

Christiansen, Ralph "Rollie" Altmeyer, Boniface Gruenenfelder and a special recognition award was present to Christy Hengel.

The inductees' stories are told through photos, artifacts, instruments and uniforms. Visiting hours are 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Admission is $6. For more information, call 507-354-7305, email mmhf@newulmtel.net or visit mnmusichalloffame.org.

Schuft wishes he had written down the thousands of wedding dances he played.

If you think Schuft is slowing down, you would be wrong. He continues to work at KDUZ/KARP as an ad salesman, a job he started after he retired in 1969 from a 30-year career as a dentist.

His best advice: Live by the three Fs: Faith, family and friends.

"God helps me," he said. "Certain relatives help me and I have friends who are close to me who I can talk to if I have a problem."

fall within parameters.

For instance, each district must have roughly 7,354 residents. Or, in other words, an equal share of the county's 36,771 residents, according to the 2020 census. The population can be within 10% higher or lower of that equal share.
