Son recalls Minnesota mom's kidnapping and fear 'that I might never see either of my parents again'

In 1972, kidnapers took his mother away and demanded his father deliver the $1 million ransom. Virginia Piper's son remembers the traumatic day 50 years ago that changed his family forever.

Virginia and Harry C. Piper Jr. with their three sons in the mid-1950s. In the back, Harry III (Pipes) and Addison (Tad). David is in the front. The sons are still wondering who kidnapped their mother in 1972.
